

NAVY LEAGUE TO BACK PRESIDENT

Organization Writes to Mr. Wilson Pledging Support of Defense Plans.

TO DEVELOP SENTIMENT

Director Ralph B. Strassburger Denies Association Is Controlled by Members of Republican Party.

As a result of information it has obtained of the maturing of powerful forces in Congress for an attack upon the President's program for providing this country with adequate naval and military defenses, the Navy League has written to President Wilson, placing that organization at his disposal in his efforts to secure the passage of measures that will assure this country of the ability to defend itself.

In the letter the Navy League congratulates the President on his vigorous work in behalf of adequate national defense and declares that in these days of national peril all good Americans ought to lay aside personal differences and party politics and rally to the support of their nation's leader in his efforts to insure the construction of defenses to protect the peace and prosperity of the country. The letter further places the league's resources at the President's disposal and invites him to consider the league as the instrument of the administration in placing before the public the danger of our unprepared condition and in organizing a wave of sentiment in support of the President's national defense measures which will insure the united support for them from Congressmen. The letter is signed by Ralph B. Strassburger, director in charge of the league's work in Washington.

Not Party Organization.

"We of the Navy League feel that the time has come when all patriotic American citizens, regardless of party, ought to join in upholding President Wilson's hands in the fearless and vigorous plan of action he has mapped out to provide our country with adequate defenses against war and invasion," said Mr. Strassburger. "It has often been asserted that the Navy League is practically a Republican organization. This is false and foolish. Such prominent Democrats as Carter Harrison Fitz Hugh, of Chicago; Albert B. Lambert, of St. Louis; and half a dozen others are members of our board of directors, and have always had a prominent place in the councils of the league. It is true that we have also many prominent Republicans, but a good American is no less patriotic whatever political party he may belong to."

"The Navy League has always taken pleasure in recognizing and endorsing men in official life who have worked for national defense, whatever their party. In the present days of strife and national danger the country is fortunate in possessing one public servant of high position who is awake to the danger that threatens the state and is doing all that lies within his power to assure the nation of continued peace and freedom from aggression. His name is Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States. Although threatened by strife and sedition from within his own party, the President has worked manfully and fearlessly for what he knows is needed to insure the safety of the country which has elected him at its head. Despite the promptings of false friends and foolish counselors, and the mutterings and threats of log-rollers and appropriators, he has held firm to the program which he knows is essential to his country's safety.

"The President needs the aid and support of every good citizen to overcome the opposition in Congress of a group uniting among its members ill-advised peace advocates, political rivals and appropriators who feel that their particular bits of 'pork' would be endangered by the passage of appropriations for national defense. These forces are at present laying lines and preparing for a campaign to the death against national defense."

Traveling Salesmen Win.

The traveling salesmen of the country yesterday won a big victory over the railroads. The Interstate Commerce Commission handed down its decision in the fight that has been waged for the past month on whether or not the railroads must accept as baggage sample trunks from which salesmen sold and gave away samples. The railroads had protested they should not do so, but the commission ruled in favor of the salesmen. The order forcing the railroads to accept trunks as ordinary baggage becomes effective October 15.

W. L. DOUGLAS REACHES SEVENTIETH MILESTONE

Shoe Manufacturer and Former Governor of Massachusetts Observing Birthday Anniversary.

Today marks the seventieth milestone in the life of W. L. Douglas, forty-second governor of Massachusetts and Brockton's most widely known citizen. Mr. Douglas was born in Plymouth in 1845, and has led a busy life. He is in splendid physical condition now, owing to careful living, and is still the active directing head of the great shoe manufacturing business that bears his name. In the summer Mr. Douglas lives at his beautiful seashore estate at Marion, and travels back and forth to his business in his automobile. Not only do these trips give pleasure, but they afford opportunity for a busy mind to formulate plans for making an already great business greater. The Douglas business has grown into a huge corporation, and Mr. Douglas can add a successful business on a small margin of profit.

The Douglas factories are located at Brockton, and the company owns and operates nearly 100 retail shoe stores in the principal cities of the country. Added to this are about 8,000 retail shoe dealers in various parts of the country who have the agency for the sale of the Douglas shoes. These outlets keep the big factories busy under normal conditions, and even now in war times the Douglas company is getting its share of business.

For twenty-six years Mr. Douglas conducted his immense enterprise under his own name, but in 1902 the business was incorporated as the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., with himself as president. The real pioneer of the low-priced custom shoe, Mr. Douglas owes a large part of his success to honestly-made shoes and his enterprise in advertising. His annual expenditures for advertising now amount up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. He early adopted his familiar scheme of including his portrait in all newspaper and magazine advertising. It was a radical innovation at the time of its adoption, and has made his face familiar throughout the world.

In 1886, when a member of the State senate of Massachusetts, he introduced a bill "to provide for the settlement of differences between employers and their employees." The bill was passed and was the immediate cause of founding by legislative act, the State board of arbitration and conciliation, one of the most effective institutions in existence for reaching and settling labor troubles. He is also author of the State weekly-payment law, which directs that employees at manual trades shall receive their wages within each calendar week.

Bed Springs Will Catch Wireless Messages, Says Secretary Daniels

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, has discovered a new use for bed springs. Mr. Daniels was informed that reports were abroad that wireless stations were being operated by German spies all over the country. It was charged that wireless apparatus had been installed on the top of a building in the resident section of Washington, and that in all probability it was controlled by Germans.

Mr. Daniels made an investigation. He learned that this particular station was the property of an enthusiastic, but unhyphenated scientist. It is at this stage in the narrative that the suggestion about bed springs must of necessity be introduced again. Mr. Daniels was commenting on the use of wireless, and remarked that it was a perfectly simple matter to devise such apparatus.

"Why, you could use an old pair of bed springs and take wireless messages," said Mr. Daniels. He intimated that with such improvised wireless spying could be rendered easy instead of dangerous, as in days gone by. He intimated further that while lying on his back, perfectly comfortable, any German spy might keep in touch with practically all the government intelligence of importance that was received and dispatched at the Arlington station, in Virginia.

WHAT IS A CAMPER? HEALTH SERVICE TELLS

Warning Issued to Persons Who "Revert to Primitive Modes and Seem to Enjoy It."

What is a camper? The United States Public Health Service has answered in a formal bulletin, as follows:

"Campers are persons who of their own volition, or through the enticement of others, revert to primitive modes of existence and ostensibly obtain enjoyment therefrom. Both place and persons then favor the development of irregularities, encourage more or less irresponsibility and lead to immediate wildness. In this there is no harm and often much good. However, one thing should not be forgotten—the arrangements. Allow the 'animals' to break loose once more for the seasonal enjoyment, but by all means have the camp sanitary so that in their wildness they will do no harm."

Among the warnings which the health service gives to campers are these: "Beware of the farmer's corn and cucumbers, eat sparingly of the confections to which you are unaccustomed, and glance at the well of boyhood days only with suspicion. Don't allow the weather or the children to annoy you, rest as well as you can, show the youngsters what father can do when he has the proper environment, and imagine what a wonderful time you are having."

URGE JUVENILE RESERVE ARMY

Retired Noncommissioned Officer Has Plan to Enroll Schoolboys.

The enrollment of all school boys more than 6 years of age into a juvenile reserve army is the substance of a national defense plan that has been submitted to the War Department by a retired noncommissioned officer, who is a resident of this city.

The plan would not call for detailed military training, but merely instruction along rudimentary lines. It is further suggested that retired noncommissioned officers be employed as instructors. Monthly reports of the progress made by the various schools would be made to the War Department.
